

Part1: Introduction & Plan for Funding

StreetGames: Hull Active Listening

As part of an exciting partnership, Street Games are working with people across Hull to gather a range of views to better understand how young people in Hull can engage more in Physical Activity.

StreetGames is the leading national charity dedicated to transforming the lives of young people growing up in underserved communities, through the power of sport.

The benefits of Physical activity are well documented and have a profound impact on people's physical and mental health. However, there are also a host of reasons why somebody is inactive. It is important we understand what drives people's current levels of activity so that as a city we can make changes to create a healthier environment for people to be active and reach their potential.

StreetGames role is to engage young people, aged 11 - 18 years old, who are less likely to be physically active to better understand their;

- PERCEPTION of physical activity;
- Current ACTIVITY LEVELS and barriers to participations, and;
- Their view of the FUTURE of physical activity.

We will do this in creative and diverse ways, working alongside trusted adults and steered by young people.

As part of this project, several organisations have been invited to access up to £500* to enable them to engage young people (that they are working with) to give their time and resources to explore the above themes.

As part of this piece of work, organisations will receive:

- Up to £500 for the project
- Support from the StreetGames team including time and resources
- Youth Voice Toolkit
- An infographic that outlines some of the insight from the young people the organisation works with -
An additional budget is available by request if you need to cover additional accessibility costs such as a translator, large print or other)*

In return, organisations will record some key pieces of information including:

- As many young people as possible will complete a short online survey '1000 Young Voices'.
- Young people will engage in exploratory conversations/workshops/other activities and organisations will report on the number of young people and some demographic information of those who participated.

- The organisation will complete a short survey after engagement to feedback a summary of insight.
- Stories, photos, worksheets completed by young people from the activities/events/workshops will be shared where appropriate.
- A quick overview on what the money was used for.
